

COLORED SELECTED MEN LEAVE TODAY

Patriotic Features Will Mark
Departure From Station
for Nation's Service.

ADDRESSES TO BE MADE

Washington's quota of colored selected men for the first National Army is to leave Union station this morning, following patriotic exercises to be held in the concourse at 7:30 o'clock.

The 410 men called are to assemble at the Franklin school and at the old Central High School building, and are to march from these buildings, headed by bands, to the station.

Plans completed last night by those in charge of the celebration called for address, music by two bands and a glee club, the distribution of soldiers' kits and other features, at the celebration to be held at the station prior to entrainment.

Lists of Selected Men.

There follow lists of the selected men from each of the eleven draft divisions, as complete as officials could make them last night. As in the case of the entrainment of the white selected men last month, the lists are somewhat tentative. They represent men called for service and ordered to go to camp this morning, but changes may have to be made at the station. The lists are complete, as far as information could be obtained from officials of the local boards.
